CARTER, Jennie

Bassendean has been our home for 40 years and is where we raised our children. I was a councillor from 2011 to 2015 and in 2019 was made a Freeperson of the Town for 'services to local government and the community'. I am a historian and the author of 'Bassendean: a social history', as well as more recent historical works. I have my own research, editing, and publication business.

For years I have been involved in organisations and campaigns to enhance the character of Bassendean, its heritage and environment. I publicly protested the decision of Councillors to sell the 165 year old cottage, our oldest building, to a private NFP organisation for $1. I support revitalising our town but more is needed for children and seniors. A bright future for Bassendean requires vigilance and commitment.
